

Delivery Robot

An autonomous delivery robot developed to streamline short-distance material movement.

The design emphasizes stability, navigation efficiency, and modular construction.

Its structure allows adaptability across different environments and use cases.

Built to support consistent operation with minimal human intervention.

